Velocity Trade acquires Latitude FX

July 12, 2010 (Auckland, Toronto)

Velocity Trade, a global foreign exchange dealer, has acquired Auckland-based Latitude FX to increase its global presence, and provide a platform for further expansion in the region.

Latitude FX, staffed by experienced foreign exchange market professionals, offers competitive foreign exchange rates for corporations and individuals online and over the phone, and a revolutionary system for transferring money around the world.

“Acquiring Latitude FX is a great step for Velocity Trade,” says Greg Morgan, Director of Velocity Trade and CEO of Latitude FX. “It gives us a footprint in New Zealand and allows us to expand throughout Australasia, quickly and effectively. Through combining efforts, Velocity Trade and Latitude FX will have the tools to ensure the best possible pricing and global settlement infrastructure to their growing client base”
